

Diversity of media representation is crucial to any hope of democracy in the modern era. Heterogeneity has always been the strength of this nation, just as homogeneity has caused the collapse of others.